

Are you a homeowner looking to make additional income from the extra space in your backyard?

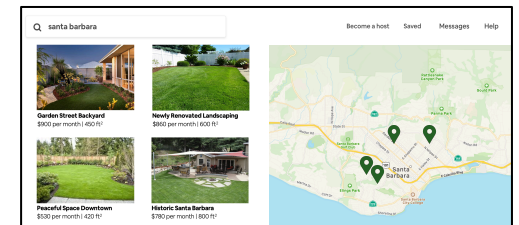

ROOTS

An online connectivity service bringing together landowners and tiny-home dwellers in search of community and stability.

What We Do

The Roots team has created a platform which connects tiny home dwellers and landowners in urban and semi-urban areas to give tiny-home dwellers the ability to live legally and stably in Southern California.

Why Get Involved

The easy-to-use online platform provides current landowners across California with a mechanism for finding low-hassle rental options for unused backyard space. By creating a profile on the platform, you will be matched with potential renters that can bring a self-sufficient tiny home to your property. Connecting with a tiny-home dweller gives you the opportunity to gain monthly rental income without the complexity of building a detached unit or keeping your spare room available for vacation rentals.

What We Do

The Roots team has created a platform which connects tiny home dwellers and landowners in urban and semi-urban areas to give tiny-home dwellers the ability to live legally and stably in Southern California.

Why Get Involved

The easy-to-use online platform provides current and future tiny home dwellers across California with a mechanism for finding legal places to rent land closer to urban centers. By creating a profile on the platform, you will be matched with potential landowners that can house your tiny home in their backyard. Connecting with a participating landowner gives you the opportunity to find comfort in a legal place without the need to commute from the outskirts of town to get to your nearest store or workplace.
